

Kelly Moyer

1025 N.E. 78th Ave.

(503) 901-0480

Portland, OR 97213

kellymoyer75@gmail.com

SELF-EMPLOYED, Portland, OR

August 2011 to present

Freelance Writer/Editor

- I currently work as a freelance writer for three online companies (TeachPro, WeVorce and Demand Media) and research/write articles related to relationships, parenting, K-12 education, entrepreneurship and divorce. I am the author of the eHow book “Breastfeeding Secrets Every Mother Should Know” and the editor of “The Hemorrhage Handbook: Preventing and Treating Postpartum Hemorrhage” and “Paths to Becoming a Midwife: Getting an Education,” published by Midwifery Today magazine.

UNION ROSE, Portland, OR

March 2013 to present

Communications/Retail Associate

- I am on the front line of this locally owned clothing/jewelry boutique in Portland's up-and-coming Montavilla neighborhood, which features more than 35 Portland clothing and jewelry designers. Aside from assisting customers with all of their needs — from finding the perfect dress to gift-wrapping a necklace — I also assist the owner with merchandising, updating our shop's social media sites, coordinating monthly First Friday sales events, and modeling for fashion shows and the shop's website.

SCOUT CONSULTANTS, Forest Grove, OR

September 2010 to August 2011

Grant Writer/Editor

- Researched, wrote and edited federal education grants for a variety of private and nonprofit clients. Was responsible for a team of more than 20 freelance grant writers, and operated under extremely tight deadlines. Our consulting company had a very high success rate, with more than 95% of our clients' grants ultimately approved.

MIDWIFERY TODAY, INC., Eugene, OR

December 2009 to December 2010

Managing Editor

- Managed the publication of a quarterly, 72-page, international magazine for working midwives, nurses, doctors, doulas and other birth professionals. Responsible for the bi-weekly publication of Midwifery Today's online newsletter, which reaches 17,000 birth professionals. Oversaw a team of more than 100 writers, including medical professionals from Europe, Israel and South America.

PAMPLIN MEDIA GROUP, Portland, OR

July 2004 to April 2009

Government/Business/Education Reporter & Managing Editor

- Edited three of the company's non-daily newspapers, covering Portland's suburban communities. Reported for a twice-weekly suburban newspaper, and contributed regularly to the Portland Tribune's daily website and monthly Sustainable Life magazine. Oversaw teams of reporters, proofreaders, photographers and designers. Also designed pages, took photos, and coordinated with other editors in the company to provide comprehensive regional coverage of the entire Portland metro area.

NEWPORT NEWS-TIMES, Newport, OR

July 1999 to August 2002

General Assignment Reporter

- Covered government, education, business and feature stories for this community newspaper on Oregon's central coast. Wrote award-winning stories on everything from the commercial fishing industry to shipwrecks and the Confederated Tribes of the Siletz.

LEWISTOWN SENTINEL, Lewistown, PA

September 1998 to July 1999

Court/Crime Reporter

- Covered court and crime stories in five counties throughout central Pennsylvania for this morning-edition daily newspaper. Reported on high-profile cases, including two murder trials. Worked with a team of 13 reporters, two photographers, and two editors, and learned how to turn over quick, accurate copy to meet daily deadlines.

Education:

UNIVERSITY OF OREGON

1993 to 1998

(B.A. in journalism. Managing editor of the UO campus magazine, The Oregon Voice)

References:

Michelle Te, former editor, Wilsonville Spokesman, Pamplin Media (971) 409-9792

Nicole Provost, owner, Union Rose (503) 256-2158

Cathy Guy, lead designer, Midwifery Today (541) 968-9087

Kari Hastings, former news editor, Pamplin Media (503) 490-9819

Cecelia Haack, former reporter/editor, Pamplin Media (503) 318-4480

Shanda Tice, photojournalist, Pamplin Media/Foto Destino (503) 381-8609

Jessie Carver, lead editor, Scout Consultants (503) 341-8041

Jan Tritten, executive editor/publisher, Midwifery Today (541) 344-7438